

A NOTE FROM KELLI HILBURN

PROGRAM ADMINISTRATOR

We love celebrating here at Better Beginnings, and Arkansas Children's Week is one of our favorite times to celebrate.

Arkansas Children's Week, April 15-21, gives us a chance to celebrate the children and families of Arkansas. They are the reason we do what we do - ensure access to high-quality early childhood education to all of Arkansas's children, so they can reach for the stars.

This year's theme, Play Yards, Neighborhoods, and Other Special Areas, focuses on exploring the immediate environments around us. Exploration and outdoor play are how children learn. Exploration awakens their natural curiosity which causes them to ask questions and puts them in the best mindset for learning.

Better Beginnings offers many nature-based resources that encourage exploration and cultivate curiosity. These resources are great companions to the activities in the Arkansas Children's Week toolkit designed by our friends at Arkansas State University Childhood Services. Keep reading this special edition of The Buzz to explore those resources.

Don't let these longer spring days go to waste. Get outside and explore all that our communities have to offer.

Until next time,

Kelli Hilburn

Sticks & Stones Creativity

The world is full of natural resources and is made out of many elements – sticks, rocks, soil, and more. Take a moment while outside to collect small items to bring home. Discuss with children the importance of taking care of our world. Teaching them now will make them caring adults.

Woodland Mini Garden

This list of nature's treasures helps guide making a woodland garden at home! With adult supervision, children can gather stones, moss, small branches, and more to create a garden that requires very little upkeep. It's the perfect hands-on activity to learn how to care for nature.
